Ten Tips for using your Rhino Outlet Security Travel Money Wallet

1. Always remember that your best defense against theft is secrecy. Keep your money wallet hidden under your clothing and don't allow anyone to see that you are wearing it.
2. The RhinoOutlet Security Travel Money Wallet is designed to hold your excess cash. Carry the money and items you need for daily use in your pocket or purse. Your secret stash should stay hidden and out of sight.
3. Avoid carrying everything in one money wallet. Whenever possible, divide your valuables, and try not to carry all of them with you at one time. If you are traveling with another person, consider dividing your credit cards so you're not both carrying the same ones.
4. Remember that not all TSA metal detectors are equal. While the RhinoOutlet Security Travel Money Wallet is designed to be TSA "Beeb Free" some sensors will detect it. Also, keep in mind that what you carry in your travel wallet will be detected. Whenever possible, discretely place your wallet in your regular carry-on as you go through TSA checkpoints.
5. The RFID protection is developed to protect the newer "tap and go" credit cards. Many people test the RFID protection using a building ID or student ID card. This type of test will give mixed results as the technology for ID cards is different than that used for credit cards.
6. Common advice is to make copies of all your credit cards and important documents. The challenge is that storing these copies in your luggage provides another means for unwanted access to your information. A better idea is to scan your items and store digital copies on your devices in an encrypted file.
7. Consider keeping a small stash of "robbers money" in your pocket that you can toss to an aggressive street robber if needed.
8. Remember that your RhinoOutlet Security Travel Money Wallet is moisture resistant, not waterproof. It is designed to wick away a regular amount of perspiration. If you sweat profusely or travel in very humid locations, place your valuable documents in zip-lock plastic bags prior to placing them in your wallet. Your Rhino Wallet will store your document very comfortably in this manner.
9. Travelers have reported that skilled pickpockets can cut the back-strap of some money belts using razor sharp scissors especially in crowded subways where people are standing. Wearing your wallet beneath your slacks will make the Rhino money belt very difficult to access in the back. You can make a simple adjustment to lower the belt in the back just prior to boarding public transportation.
10. Your RhinoOutlet Security Travel Money Wallet was designed to provide years of worry free travel. We want you to enjoy your travel experience and make many wonderful and very positive memories. Your travel wallet is made of the best material available and should provide you years of service. If you are not 100% satisfied with your purchase, simply return it to RhinoOutlet for a full refund.
